

About the school:

Cabinteely Community School is a co-educational school based on a 12-acre site in south County Dublin. We have served the local community and its environs since 1975. For over four decades we have endeavoured to fulfil our brief of providing a quality education for the entire area.

Our inclusive policy ensures a welcome for students of many different backgrounds, providing them with the opportunity to reach their full potential in a supportive and respectful environment.
